Detailed Analysis of Each Free Response Question

Examining the specific prompts from the 2014 AP English Language free response offers insight into the expectations and common challenges students face. Each question requires a tailored approach, emphasizing different rhetorical and analytical skills.

Rhetorical Analysis Prompt

The rhetorical analysis question typically presents a passage from a nonfiction text. Students are asked to analyze how the author uses rhetorical devices such as diction, imagery, syntax, and tone to achieve a persuasive or informative purpose. The 2014 prompt required close reading and an understanding of how argumentation techniques shape meaning.

Argumentative Essay Prompt

Scoring Guidelines and Rubric Explanation

The 2014 AP English Language free response essays were scored using a detailed rubric that assesses three main criteria: thesis and argument development, evidence and commentary, and sophistication of thought and writing style. Understanding these scoring components helps students focus their responses effectively.

Thesis and Argument Development

Essays must present a clear, defensible thesis in response to the prompt. The argument should be logical, well-organized, and consistently developed throughout the essay. Partial or unclear theses can result in lower scores.

Use of Evidence and Commentary

High-scoring essays include specific evidence from the provided texts or relevant examples to support claims. Moreover, insightful commentary explaining the significance of the evidence is necessary to demonstrate analytical depth.

Writing Style and Sophistication

Essays that exhibit mature writing style, varied sentence structure, precise word choice, and control of grammar and mechanics receive higher scores. Additionally, essays that offer nuanced insights or address complexities in the prompt demonstrate greater sophistication.

Score Range and Descriptors

1. 9-8: Exceptional essays that fully address the prompt with compelling argumentation and effective writing.
2. 7-6: Strong essays with clear thesis and adequate evidence but may lack depth or polish.
3. 5-4: Competent but uneven essays that meet basic requirements with some lapses in clarity or support.
4. 3-1: Weak essays lacking clear thesis, sufficient evidence, or coherent organization.
5. 0: Essays that are off-topic, blank, or otherwise fail to meet minimum standards.
