The Russian language, characterized by its rich grammatical structure, offers various tenses, aspects, and moods that can be daunting for learners. This article aims to provide an extensive overview of 501 Russian verbs, focusing on their full conjugation across all tenses and aspects.

Understanding Russian Verb Conjugation

To fully grasp the concept of verb conjugation in Russian, it's essential to recognize the basic elements involved. Russian verbs can be categorized based on their aspects, tenses, and moods.

Aspects of Russian Verbs

Russian verbs have two main aspects:

1. Perfective: This aspect denotes completed actions or those that have a clear endpoint.
2. Imperfective: This aspect indicates ongoing, habitual, or repeated actions without a specified endpoint.

Tenses in Russian

Russian verbs are conjugated in several tenses:

- Present Tense: Indicates actions happening now.
- Past Tense: Refers to actions that have already occurred.
- Future Tense: Describes actions that will happen.

Additionally, the future tense can be either simple (for perfective verbs) or compound (for imperfective verbs).

Moods of Russian Verbs

Russian verbs can also express different moods:

- Indicative Mood: Used for stating facts.
- Imperative Mood: Used for commands or requests.
- Subjunctive Mood: Less common in Russian, often expressed through conditional phrases.

Conjugation Patterns for Russian Verbs

Understanding the patterns of conjugation is vital for mastering verb forms. Here is a general template for conjugating verbs in the present, past, and future tenses.

Present Tense Conjugation

In the present tense, verbs are conjugated according to the subject pronoun. Here's a basic structure:

1. Я (I): -ю/-у
2. Ты (You, singular informal): -ишь/-ешь
3. Он/Она/Оно (He/She/It): -ит/-ет
4. Мы (We): -им/-ем
5. Вы (You, plural/formal): -ите/-ете
6. Они (They): -ят/-ут

Past Tense Conjugation

In the past tense, the endings depend on the subject's gender and number:

1. Masculine singular: -л
2. Feminine singular: -ла
3. Neuter singular: -ло
4. Plural: -ли

Future Tense Conjugation

The future tense can be formed as follows:

1. Perfective Verbs: Use the infinitive form.
2. Imperfective Verbs: Constructed with the appropriate future forms of "быть" (to be).
