1. Ideas

The first trait, ideas, refers to the content and main message of the writing. This trait focuses on the clarity and relevance of the ideas presented.

- Clarity: Are the ideas clear and easy to understand?
- Relevance: Do the ideas relate to the assigned topic?
- Depth: Are the ideas developed thoroughly, with supporting details and examples?

To enhance this trait, students can practice brainstorming and organizing their thoughts before writing. Using graphic organizers can help them visualize their ideas.

2. Organization

Organization is about how well the writing is structured. This trait assesses the logical flow of ideas and the effectiveness of the introduction, body, and conclusion.

- Structure: Is there a clear beginning, middle, and end?

- Transitions: Are there smooth transitions between paragraphs and ideas?

- Precision: Are the words specific and accurate?
- Imagery: Does the language evoke strong images or feelings?

To enhance sentence fluency, students can practice writing sentences in different lengths and structures. Reading their work aloud can also help them identify awkward or choppy sentences that need revision.

6. Conventions

- Grammar: Is the writing free from grammatical errors?
- Punctuation: Are punctuation marks used correctly?
- Spelling: Is the spelling accurate throughout the writing?

To improve conventions, students should engage in regular editing and proofreading practices. Teaching them common grammatical rules and conducting peer review sessions can also help enhance their understanding of writing conventions.
