Overview of the AP World History Course

The AP World History course is designed to provide high school students with a college-level curriculum that covers significant historical themes and developments across different regions of the world. The course encourages students to develop a global perspective by examining interactions between societies, including economic, political, social, and cultural dynamics. It spans from approximately 1200 CE to the present, emphasizing the patterns and processes that have shaped world history over time. The course is structured to enhance students' abilities to analyze and synthesize historical evidence, fostering a deeper understanding of the complexities of world history.

Course Objectives

The primary objectives of the AP World History course include developing students' ability to:

- Analyze historical developments and processes from multiple perspectives

- Understand and describe patterns of continuity and change over time
- Use primary and secondary sources to support historical arguments
- Recognize the impact of geography and environment on historical events
- Compare different societies and their interactions throughout history

Course Content and Themes

The curriculum is organized around key themes and historical periods that reflect significant global trends and events. These themes help students connect disparate historical phenomena and understand long-term developments.

Key Historical Periods

The course covers six major periods, each focusing on critical transformations and continuities in world history:

1. The Global Tapestry (c. 1200 to c. 1450)
2. Networks of Exchange (c. 1450 to c. 1750)
3. Land-Based Empires (c. 1450 to c. 1750)
4. Transoceanic Interconnections (c. 1450 to c. 1750)
5. Revolutions (c. 1750 to c. 1900)
6. Consequences of Industrialization and Global Conflict (c. 1900 to present)

Major Themes

The course emphasizes five overarching themes that guide content exploration:

- Interaction between humans and the environment: Examining how geography, climate, and disease have influenced societies.
- Development and interaction of cultures: Understanding religion, belief systems, and cultural diffusion.
- State-building, expansion, and conflict: Analyzing political structures, empires, and warfare.

- Creation, expansion, and interaction of economic systems: Studying trade networks, labor systems, and economic policies.
- Development and transformation of social structures: Exploring class, gender, and social hierarchy changes.

Exam Structure and Format

The AP World History exam assesses students' knowledge and skills through a combination of multiple-choice questions and free-response items. The exam is typically administered in May and is timed for a total of three hours and fifteen minutes.

Multiple-Choice Section

This section includes approximately 55 questions, designed to evaluate students' ability to analyze historical sources, interpret data, and apply knowledge across time periods and regions. Students have 55 minutes to complete this section, which accounts for 40% of the overall exam score.

Short Answer Questions

Following the multiple-choice portion, students answer three short-answer questions within 40 minutes. These questions require concise, focused responses that demonstrate historical thinking skills and content knowledge. This section makes up 20% of the exam score.

Document-Based Question (DBQ)

The DBQ requires students to formulate an argument based on a set of provided historical documents. Students must analyze and synthesize information from these sources while incorporating outside knowledge. The DBQ lasts 60 minutes and is worth 25% of the total exam score.

Long Essay Question (LEQ)

The LEQ tasks students with writing an extended essay in response to one of three prompts, each focusing on different time periods or themes. This section also lasts 40 minutes and constitutes 15% of the exam score.

Skills and Competencies Assessed

The AP World History exam evaluates a range of historical thinking skills essential for academic success in history and related disciplines. These skills enable students to engage deeply with historical content and evidence.

Historical Thinking Skills

- Chronological Reasoning: Understanding and explaining patterns of continuity and change over time.
- Comparison and Contextualization: Comparing societies and historical developments within broader contexts.
- Causation: Analyzing causes and consequences of historical events.
- Argument Development: Constructing coherent, evidence-based historical arguments.
- Use of Evidence: Interpreting primary and secondary sources to support claims.

Analytical Skills

Students must interpret diverse types of historical evidence, including texts, images, maps, and quantitative data. The ability to evaluate the reliability and perspective of sources is critical for success on the exam.

Scoring and Grading Criteria

The AP World History exam is scored on a scale from 1 to 5, with 5 being the highest possible score. The scoring rubric balances multiple-choice accuracy with the quality of written responses on free-response questions.

Score Distribution

The exam's weighted components are as follows:

- Multiple-Choice: 40%
- Short Answer Questions: 20%
- Document-Based Question: 25%

- Long Essay Question: 15%

Rubric for Free-Response Questions

Free-response questions are graded based on the clarity of argument, use of evidence, historical accuracy, and synthesis of information. The DBQ requires effective integration of documents, while the LEQ demands a well-organized essay addressing the prompt comprehensively.

Preparation Tips and Resources

Effective preparation for the AP World History exam involves a combination of content review, skill development, and practice with exam-style questions. Students are encouraged to engage with a variety of study materials and strategies to maximize their performance.

Study Strategies

- Review course themes and key historical periods thoroughly.
- Practice analyzing primary and secondary sources regularly.
