

ashley johnson drunk history

Ashley Johnson drunk history is a fascinating topic that intertwines the world of comedy and historical storytelling. Ashley Johnson, an accomplished actress, voice actress, and writer, is perhaps most renowned for her roles in various animated series and video games, including her iconic portrayal of Ellie in "The Last of Us." However, her appearances on the popular web series "Drunk History" have offered fans a unique glimpse into her comedic talent and ability to bring history to life in a lighthearted, entertaining way. In this article, we will explore Ashley Johnson's contributions to "Drunk History," the format of the show, and the impact it has had on both her career and the way audiences perceive historical events.

The Concept of Drunk History

"Drunk History," created by Derek Waters, is a comedic web series that presents a humorous take on historical events, where narrators recount historical tales while under the influence of alcohol. The show has gained a cult following due to its unique format and the wide array of celebrity guests who participate. The premise is simple yet effective:

1. Alcohol Consumption: Narrators consume alcohol before recounting historical events, resulting in humorous mispronunciations, memory lapses, and comedic twists.
2. Reenactments: Actors, often celebrities, reenact the stories as the drunken narrators provide voiceovers. This combination creates a hilarious juxtaposition that captivates viewers.
3. Educational Value: Despite its comedic nature, "Drunk History" often sheds light on lesser-known historical events, making it both entertaining and informative.

Ashley Johnson's Role in Drunk History

Ashley Johnson's appearances on "Drunk History" have showcased her versatility as an actress and her comedic prowess. Her most memorable segments include:

Episode Highlights

1. "The Great Alaskan Bush Company" (Season 3, Episode 7): In this episode, Johnson narrates the story of the Alaskan gold rush and the establishment of the Great Alaskan Bush Company, a strip club that became famous during the gold rush era. Her animated storytelling and humorous insights into the characters involved make this segment particularly memorable.
2. "The Battle of the Sexes" (Season 4, Episode 5): Ashley Johnson tells the story of the famous tennis match between Bobby Riggs and Billie Jean King. Her enthusiastic delivery and the reenactment of the iconic match add a layer of excitement to a significant historical moment in sports.
3. "The Shining" (Season 5, Episode 9): In this episode, she recounts the true story behind Stephen King's "The Shining." Her ability to blend horror with humor makes this segment stand out, as she dives into the bizarre events surrounding the novel's inspiration.
