By working overtime and maintaining clear communication, we delivered the project on time, which resulted in positive feedback from management."
- Describe a situation where you had to work with a difficult team member.

2. Situational Questions

Situational questions assess how candidates would handle hypothetical scenarios. Here are some examples:

- What would you do if you noticed a discrepancy in a financial report?

- How would you handle a dissatisfied customer?
- Suggested Answer: "I believe in active listening to understand the customer's concerns. I would empathize with their situation, apologize for any inconvenience, and work to find a solution that meets their needs. Following up after the resolution ensures the customer feels valued."

Depending on the position, candidates may face technical questions relevant to finance, banking, or the specific role they are applying for. Here are examples for different roles:

- For Finance Roles:
- What is the difference between a balance sheet and an income statement?
