Understanding the MLA Style Manual

The MLA Style Manual provides a systematic approach to writing and citing sources in the humanities. It emphasizes clarity, coherence, and consistency in academic writing. The primary goal of the MLA format is to facilitate communication among scholars and to honor intellectual property through proper citation.

Why Use the MLA Style Manual?

The MLA Style Manual is widely used in various academic fields, especially in literature, philosophy, and the arts. Here are several reasons why you should consider using the MLA format:

1. Standardization: The MLA format offers a standardized structure for academic writing, which helps readers easily navigate through your work.
2. Credibility: Proper citations enhance the credibility of your arguments and give credit to the original authors whose work you are referencing.
3. Clarity: The systematic approach of the MLA style improves the overall clarity of your writing.
4. Scholarly Communication: By adhering to a common format, you engage in scholarly conversation with other researchers and writers.

Key Components of the MLA Style Manual

To effectively borrow from the MLA Style Manual, it is essential to familiarize yourself with its key components. The following sections outline the most critical elements of the MLA format.

1. Formatting Your Paper

When preparing your document in MLA format, pay attention to the following guidelines:

- Page Layout:
- Use 1-inch margins on all sides.

- Choose a legible font, such as Times New Roman, size 12.
- Double-space your text throughout the document.
- Header and Pagination:
 - Create a header that includes your last name and the page number, aligned to the right.
 - The header should appear on each page of your paper.
- Title Page:
 - MLA does not require a title page. Instead, include your name, your instructor's name, the course title, and the date in the upper left corner of the first page.
 - Center your title on the next line after your heading, without any special formatting (bold, italics, etc.).

2. In-Text Citations

In-text citations are essential for crediting sources within your writing. The MLA format employs parenthetical citations that include the author's last name and the page number from which the information is drawn. Here are some guidelines:

- Basic Format:
 - (Author's Last Name Page Number)
 - Example: (Smith 23)
- Multiple Authors:
 - For two authors: (Smith and Johnson 45)
 - For three or more authors: (Smith et al. 60)
- No Author:
 - Use a shortened version of the title in quotation marks: ("Impact of Climate Change" 15)

3. Works Cited Page

The Works Cited page is a crucial part of your document, listing all sources referenced in your work. Here are some key points to remember:

- Placement: The Works Cited page should begin on a new page at the end of your document.
- Title: Center the title "Works Cited" at the top of the page.
- Format: Entries should be double-spaced, and the second and subsequent lines of each entry should have a hanging indent.
- Entry Format: Follow the specific format for different types of sources:
 - Books: Author's Last Name, First Name. Title of Book. Publisher, Year.
 - Articles: Author's Last Name, First Name. "Title of Article." Title of Journal, vol. number, no. number, Year, pages.
 - Websites: Author's Last Name, First Name. "Title of Web Page." Website Name, Publisher, Date of Publication, URL.
