Sample CASPer Questions and Answers

To provide a practical understanding of what to expect, here are some sample CASPer questions along with suggested approaches for answering:

Sample Question 1: Ethical Dilemma

Scenario: You are a medical student observing a senior physician who is dismissing a patient's concerns about their symptoms. The patient appears anxious, and you believe they need further evaluation. What do you do?

Sample Answer:

- Acknowledge the Situation: I would first recognize the senior physician's experience but also emphasize the importance of patient-centered care.
- Approach the Physician: I would respectfully voice my concerns to the physician, suggesting that we consider further tests or evaluations for the patient.
- Advocate for the Patient: If the physician dismisses my input, I would consider discussing the matter privately with the patient to understand their concerns more deeply and possibly suggest they seek a second opinion.
- Reflect on the Outcome: Regardless of the outcome, I would reflect on this experience to learn how to balance respect for authority with advocacy for patient care.

Sample Question 2: Interpersonal Skills

Scenario: You are part of a group project in which one member is not contributing and is often absent from meetings. How do you address this situation?

Sample Answer:

- Initiate a Conversation: I would reach out to the group member privately to discuss their absence and ask if there are any challenges they are facing that we could help with.
- Encourage Open Communication: I would express the importance of their contributions to the project and encourage them to share any obstacles that might be hindering their participation.
- Suggest Solutions: Depending on their response, I would suggest ways to accommodate their needs, such as adjusting meeting times or redistributing tasks to ensure everyone feels included and valued.
- Involve the Group: If the situation does not improve, I would bring it up with the group, focusing on the impact of the absence on our collective goals rather than blaming the individual.

Sample Question 3: Problem-Solving

Scenario: You are volunteering at a local clinic and notice that the waiting room is overcrowded, leading to long wait times for patients. What actions would you take?

Sample Answer:

- Assess the Situation: I would first take note of the number of patients waiting and speak with the clinic staff to understand the reasons for the delays.
- Propose Improvements: I would suggest implementing a ticket system to manage patient flow better or increasing the number of staff available during peak hours.
- Communicate with Patients: While changes are being made, I would communicate with the patients in the waiting room, providing updates on wait times and ensuring they feel acknowledged and valued.
- Evaluate Outcomes: After implementing changes, I would monitor the waiting times and gather feedback from both staff and patients to identify further areas for improvement.

Sample Question 4: Cultural Sensitivity

Scenario: You are a healthcare provider meeting a patient from a different cultural background who is hesitant to discuss their health issues. How do you handle this?

Sample Answer:

- Build Trust: I would take the time to establish rapport with the patient, showing respect for their cultural background and beliefs.
- Ask Open-Ended Questions: I would encourage the patient to share their concerns in a non-threatening manner, using open-ended questions to facilitate discussion.
- Incorporate Cultural Competence: I would demonstrate an understanding of their cultural context and how it may influence their views on health and treatment.

- Be Patient: If the patient continues to be hesitant, I would reassure them that their comfort and trust are my priorities and that I am here to support them.
