Sample Civil Procedure Practice Exam Questions

Below are some sample civil procedure practice exam questions along with detailed answers to help guide your studies.

Question 1: Jurisdiction

Question: A plaintiff files a lawsuit in a federal court based on diversity jurisdiction. The plaintiff is a citizen of Texas, and the defendant is a citizen of California. The amount in controversy is $75,000. Is the federal court likely to have jurisdiction over this case?

Answer: Yes, the federal court is likely to have jurisdiction based on diversity jurisdiction. Under 28 U.S.C. § 1332, federal courts have original jurisdiction over civil actions where the matter in controversy exceeds $75,000 and is between citizens of different states. Since the plaintiff and defendant are citizens of different states, and the amount in controversy exceeds the threshold, diversity jurisdiction is satisfied.

Question 2: Venue

Question: A plaintiff from New York sues a defendant who resides in Florida for breach of contract. If the contract was signed in New York, where should the plaintiff file the lawsuit?

Answer: The plaintiff can file the lawsuit in New York. According to 28 U.S.C. § 1391, a civil action may be brought in a judicial district where any defendant resides, if all defendants are residents of the state in which the district is located. Since the contract was signed in New York, the plaintiff also has the option to file there, as the events giving rise to the claim occurred in that state.

Question 3: Discovery

Question: During the discovery phase, the defendant refuses to respond to the plaintiff's request for production of documents. What steps can the plaintiff take to compel the defendant to comply?

Answer: The plaintiff can file a motion to compel discovery under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 37.

This motion requests the court to order the defendant to provide the requested documents. If the court grants the motion, the defendant may be required to comply with the request. Additionally, if the defendant continues to refuse, the court may impose sanctions, which could include monetary fines or even dismissal of the defendant's claims or defenses.
