Types of Context Clues

There are several types of context clues that can assist readers in determining the meanings of unfamiliar words. Here are some of the most common types:

- Definition Clues: Sometimes, the text provides a direct definition of the unfamiliar word within the same sentence or nearby sentences. For example, "The arboreal creature, a tree-dwelling animal, swung gracefully from branch to branch."
- Synonym Clues: The author may use synonyms to provide hints about the meaning. For instance, "The teacher was very amiable; she was friendly and approachable to all her students."
- Antonym Clues: Contrasting words can also signal the meaning of a word. For example, "Her demeanor was not at all like her brother's; he was always jubilant, while she was quite morose."
- Example Clues: Sometimes, examples are given to illustrate a term. For example, "Many fruits are tropical, such as mangoes, pineapples, and bananas."
- Inference Clues: Readers can use their knowledge and the surrounding text to infer the meaning. For example, "The sun was setting, casting a golden hue over the horizon; it was a beautiful, tranquil evening." Here, 'tranquil' suggests calmness without a direct definition.

Strategies for Identifying Context Clues

To effectively use context clues, readers should employ certain strategies:

1. Read the Surrounding Text: Look at the sentences before and after the unfamiliar word to gather clues about its meaning.
