Understanding the Seven Deadly Sins

The concept of the seven deadly sins has its origins in Christian theology. These sins are considered vices that lead to further immorality and are often contrasted with the seven heavenly virtues. The sins are:

1. Pride – Excessive belief in one's abilities, leading to disregard for others.
2. Greed – An insatiable desire for more than what one needs or deserves, especially concerning wealth.
3. Lust – Intense or uncontrolled desires, particularly of a sexual nature.
4. Envy – Resentment towards others' possessions or qualities, leading to feelings of inadequacy.
5. Gluttony – Overindulgence in food, drink, or other pleasures.
6. Wrath – Extreme anger that can lead to violence or revenge.
