Understanding the Ballot

As voters prepare for the 2023 elections, it is essential to familiarize themselves with the items that will appear on the ballot. This includes candidates for various offices, as well as measures that may require voter approval.

Candidates for Local Office

This year's elections will feature candidates running for key positions in Denver's city government. The following offices will be contested:

- Mayor: The mayor of Denver plays a critical role in shaping city policies and priorities. Voters will have the opportunity to choose from a diverse group of candidates.
- City Council: Several city council seats are up for election, impacting local legislation, zoning laws, and community issues.
- Clerk and Recorder: This position oversees elections and maintains vital records. The choice of clerk can influence how elections are conducted in the city.

Ballot Measures

In addition to candidates, Denver voters will also weigh in on several ballot measures. These measures can address a variety of issues, including taxation, public spending, and community initiatives. Some of the proposed measures may include:

- Affordable Housing Initiatives: Measures aimed at increasing funding for affordable housing developments and programs.
- Public Safety Funding: Proposals to enhance funding for police, fire departments, and emergency services.
- Transportation Improvements: Initiatives focused on improving public transit options and infrastructure within the city.

Voters should take the time to research each measure, understanding its implications on the community before making a decision.

Voter Registration

One of the first steps for participating in the elections is ensuring that you are registered to vote. Here's a guide to the voter registration process in Denver:

How to Register

Residents can register to vote in several ways:

- Online: Voters can register through the Colorado Secretary of State's website. This method is quick and efficient.
- By Mail: Voters can complete a voter registration form and mail it to the Denver Elections Division.
- In-Person: Registration can also be completed at designated government offices, including the Denver Elections Division office.

Checking Your Registration Status

It is advisable for voters to check their registration status to ensure they are eligible to vote. This can be done online through the Colorado Secretary of State's website. Voters can verify their registration details, including their voting district and polling location.

Accessibility and Support for Voters

Denver is committed to ensuring that all voters can participate in the electoral process, regardless of their circumstances. Here are some of the support mechanisms in place:

Voting Accessibility

Denver provides various accommodations for individuals with disabilities, ensuring they can vote independently and privately. These include:

- Accessible Polling Locations: All polling places are required to meet accessibility standards.
- Assistance: Voters can request assistance from poll workers or bring someone to help them during the voting process.

- Accessible Voting Machines: Specialized voting machines are available to assist voters with disabilities.

Language Support

Denver serves a diverse population, and language support is provided to ensure that non-English speakers can also participate in the voting process. Voters can access ballots and election materials in multiple languages, and assistance is available at polling places.

Tips for a Smooth Voting Experience

To ensure a positive voting experience, residents are encouraged to follow these tips:

1. Research Candidates and Issues: Take the time to learn about the candidates and any measures on the ballot.
2. Plan Your Voting Method: Decide whether you will vote in person or by mail and make the necessary arrangements.
3. Double-Check Registration: Verify that your voter registration is current and accurate.
4. Know Your Rights: Familiarize yourself with your voting rights to ensure you can advocate for yourself if needed.
